RED ROCKET SEEN IN U. S.

ANNETTE TRIES ON THE RING — Annette Dionne, one of the four surviving Dionne quintuplets, and fiance Germain Allard give her ring finger a test before their wedding in Montreal, Que. She is the first of the famed sisters to wed.

One Quint Married; Another in Hospital

MONTREAL (UP) — Quintuplet Yvonne Dionne, whose sister Annette is on her wedding trip in the Laurentian Mountains, was reported seriously ill today in a Montreal hospital.

The condition of the quint, hospitalized earlier in the week with Asian flu, took a turn for the worse Friday night only a few hours after Annette and her husband, Germain Allard, were married.

The couple visited Yvonne before leaving on their honeymoon. She had been unable to attend their quiet wedding Friday.

Early today the quint's physician, Dr. Real Gelinas, said Yvonne was suffering from a "severe pulmonary ailment; her condition is serious but not yet desperate."

The doctor refused further comment and would not confirm or deny reports Yvonne had pneumonia or bronchitis.

Visit Cut Short

Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, parents of the four living quintuplets, went with the newlyweds to visit Yvonne at Notre Dame L'Esperance Hospital, but doctors cut short the visit for fear the excitement would overtax the girl in her weakened condition.

The Dionnes left with Yvonne the top of the wedding cake and some floral decorations from Notre Dame de Salette Church, where Annette and the 24-year-old businessman were married.

Efforts to keep the wedding studiously quiet were not completely successful. All the doors to the church were locked to keep outsiders away from the wedding of the first of the famous quintuplets to marry.

But someone found one back door that hadn't been locked, and photographers and newsmen burst into the church during the recitation of the Lord's Prayer. A few minutes later, while the couple signed the marriage register there were 20 still and newsreel photographers in the church, popping flashbulbs and shining bright lights.

Both Marie and Cecile were at the wedding. Emilie, the fifth, died in an epileptic seizure in 1954.

Peoples Asking Compensating Rate Increase

For the purpose of covering a wholesale gas increase the company will begin paying Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation on Nov. 10. The Peoples Natural Gas Co. today asked the Public Utility Commission for a compensating increase in its rates.

The increase would amount to eight tenths of a cent per thousand cubic feet for all gas, except the first thousand cubic feet, supplied by Peoples to all classes of consumers each month.

Peoples is seeking additional revenue of $734,089, which is the annual increased amount it will begin paying to Texas Eastern on November 10.

Provision is made for refunds to consumers if the Federal Power Commission eventually determines that the Texas Eastern increase is excessive.

Stieska in Challenge For Public Debate

"I'm ready and willing to corroborate every statement I made in public debate any place and anytime," John R. Stieska, Republican nominee for mayor of Monessen, declared today.

This challenge was issued by Stieska following Mayor Hugo J. Parente's statement yesterday that he will answer charges leveled against him by Stieska at a Westmoreland County Democratic rally tomorrow night at National Polish Alliance hall in Monessen.

Stieska, who lost to Parente for the Democratic nomination but edged him out for the Republican bid after a legal battle, told The Daily Independent today that he is anxious to have his debate challenge met.

The GOP nominee last Wednesday called for the defeat of Parente in the Nov. 5 general election, stating that Parente, who is seeking a fourth term, is "not indispensable. . .not honorable. . . not responsible for the material progress of Monessen as he claims."

Parente told The Independent yesterday that he will have answers to Stieska's charges at the rally tomorrow night.

Stieska, a registered Democrat, said today he doesn't know if he can attend tomorrow's rally.

"I'm certainly going to try," he stated.

The rally is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. Democratic candidates for both local and county offices will be on hand.

State Assemblyman Anthony J. Petrosky, Slickville, is general chairman. Local committeemen are Anthony Czelen, chairman, and John Harhai and Stephen Wisyanski, co-chairmen.

John Kotch Jr., Monessen Democratic campaign manager, said an overflow crowd is expected. Everyone is welcome, he said.

Rules Westinghouse Employes Eligible For Jobless Benefits

HARRISBURG (UP) — The controversial jobless benefit claims in the Westinghouse Electric Corp. work stoppage of two years ago moved another step toward settlement today after 33,000 employes of the firm were ruled eligible for the benefits.

However, Westinghouse now has 30 days to appeal the decision of the state Unemployment Compensation Board of Review to the state Superior Court, with the prospect the case may drag on for additional months.

A court ruling prevents payment of the claims while appeals are pending.

The board late Friday enlarged the list of eligible workers in its findings from appeals taken to the rulings of a board referee made a year ago. The original ruling made 22,000 employes eligible for the payments. But the board reversed one of the referee's findings which denied benefits for more than 10,000 workers in western Pennsylvania plants of Westinghouse for the period between Aug. 1, 1955 and Sept. 23, 1955.

In its series of rulings on the various claims involving work stoppages at Westinghouse plants between August, 1955, and February, 1956, the board decided:

Reviewed Referee Findings

—To uphold the referee's order for benefits for 6,000 workers at the electrical firm's South Philadelphia works for the period between Oct. 23, 1955 and Feb. 20, 1956.

—To reverse the referee's ruling and allow payments for almost 10,000 employes of the East Pittsburgh and Homewood works, including plants in Turtle Creek, Linhart, Trafford, East Pittsburgh and Homewood. The period of eligibility would run from Aug. 1, 1955 to Sept. 23, 1955.

—To affirm the referee's ruling for payments to 16,000 workers in the Pittsburgh, Sharon and Philadelphia plants for the period between Dec. 27, 1955 and Feb. 27, 1956.

—To authorize benefits for approximately 950 employes at the Derry and Nuttal plants for one week more than had been allowed by the referee.

Altnough the work stoppages occurred intermittently at the scattered plants from August to the following March, the main argument has revolved around whether the firm, in effect, "locked out" employes when it declined Gov. George M. Leader's offer that the labor dispute be submitted to arbitration. The unions involved accepted the governor's offer.

Early estimates put the amount involved in benefits at more than four million dollars. Later this mounted to 10 million and it could top 15 million if all of the board rulings were upheld.

By state law, strikers may not collect unemployment compensation but workers idled by a company "lockout" are eligible for the payments.

PITTSBURGH (UP —Benjamin F. Fairless, former United States Steel Corp. board chairman, has entered West Penn Hospital for a routine checkup.

State Budget Secretary Says Outlook Excellent

HARRISBURG (UP) — Budget Secretary John H. Ferguson said today the "outlook is excellent" for a balanced budget at the end of the current fiscal period, May 31, 1959.

Ferguson said the deficit for the previous biennium that ended last May 31 totaled $62,800,000, about 20 million dollars less than was anticipated last January by the budget office. Ferguson pointed out the administration had "inherited" a 52 million dollar deficit in the General Fund from the Republicans.

"We have kept the deficit 20 million dollars under the earlier forecast," Ferguson said. "And, most important of all, it now appears that we will be able to wipe out the deficit entirely by the end of this biennium."

General Fund receipts subject to appropriation totaled $1,400,000,000, plus receipts for special purposes for another $35,800,000.

The Motor License Fund was listed at $80,162,252 but bills of more than 42 million dollars were transferred from the last biennium to the current one to reduce the figure to $37,374,030.

MONESSEN MAN HEADS U. S. CONSULATE — Consul Carmen Richard Pasquale, a native of Monessen, sits at his desk in the United States consulate in Ottawa, Canada, which today marks the 100th anniversary of the post. With Pasquale is Irene O'Connell, a Canadian citizen who has worked at the consulaate for 27 years.

Ex-Monessen Man in Charge of Consulate

Today, Columbus Day, the United States consulate in Canada is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

Ordinarily a celebration of this type wouldn't mean an iota to most Monessen residents.

However, such is not the case.

For a Monessen native, Carmen Richard Pasquale, is in charge of the U.S. consulate in Ottawa, Canada.

Pasquale, who was born and reared in Monessen, heads one of the most important consular posts in the world. It is his job to help solidify friendly relations between Canada and the United States, both on the personal and official levels.

Story Historical

The story of the U.S. consulate in Canada is a historical one.

On Oct. 12, 1857 Quebec was still Lower Canada, Ontario Upper Canada, what are now the Maritime provinces were individual colonies and Western Canada was largely a preserve of the Hudson's Bay Company. It was not until some months later that the "national" capital was to shift from Montreal to Ottawa, with the approval of Queen Victoria.

Also on that date, just four years before the bitter Civil War was to split the nation asunder, the United States set up its first consulate in Ottawa. It was known officially, at the time, as the "Consulate General of the United States of America for the British North American Provinces."

Rank of Minister

At the present time, the operations of the consulate are guided by Pasquale, whose rank is that of consul and whose working title is "principal officer."

This is something of a special but not unusual arrangement, since the job of principal officer is normally done by a consul general.

In the case of the U.S. Consulate General in Ottawa, there has been no new appointment since the death some months ago of Hearve L'Heureux, who was the consul general and also held the personal rank of minister conferred on him by Prresident Eisenhower.

According to Pasquale, the de-

Dr. E. C. Clarke New President Of Geneva College

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (P) — Dr. Edwin Cameron Clarke was installed today as the 15th president of Geneva College.

Dr. Clarke, in his acceptance speech, said Geneva's mission "in this difficult and dangerous age is to help educate our young people in such a way that many of them will become outstanding consecrated Christian leaders."

In order to achieve this objective, Dr. Clarke said, Geneva's educational program must be basically and essentially Christian in character, primarily liberal arts in nature and excellent in quality.

Dr. John D. Russell, former U.S. assistant commissioner of higher education, was guest speaker at the inauguration ceremonies.

Now executive secretary of educational finance for the state of New Mexico, Dr. Russell said people want higher education. He said in order to get it they must develop ways of supporting education financially.

Scientists Hope To Photograph Soviet Satellite

By UNITED PRESS

The spent rocket accompanying Russia's earth satellite on its globe-girdling course showed itself to early risers in New England today like a bright morning star.

The observers included excited viewers atop the roof of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, headquarters of operation moonwatch.

One observer, Dr. Armand Spitz, coordinator of the moonwatch operation, said he believed he saw not only the rocket but also the satellite itself.

Five observers said they were sure they sighted the third-stage rocket, which boosted Sputnik hundreds of miles into the sky and then stayed aloft to keep it company on its 18,000-mile-an-hour trips around the globe.

United Press reporter James Ryan said he saw the satellite for about 15 seconds. He said it looked much brighter than nearby stars.

"It was a yellowish white ball when I saw it," said Paul Valle, one of the moonwatch crew.

In Britain, scientists reported they succeeded Friday night in zeroing in their radio telescope, the world's largest, on the elusive satellite.

Professor A. Lovell said the giant Jodrell Bank Telescope in Cheshire appeared to have recorded echoes both from the satellite which Russia launched a week ago from the spent rocket that bore it aloft and is tailing it around the earth at 18,000 miles an hour.

Scientists in Pasadena, Calif., hoped to photograph the satellite at dawn today with a unique device, the Baker - Nunn Schmidt-type telescopic camera.

Watchers Still Hopeful

In Cambridge, Mass., 14 volunteer moonwatchers lined up with telescopes on the roof of a building in hopes of scoring the first visual sighting of Sputnik when it passes over.

At the same time, scientists at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, world moon watch headquarters, attempted to determine with an electronic brain the satellite's exact altitude.

Other developments included:

—Radio Moscow's scientific expert confirmed that the satellite was transmitting its information on space in "secret code."

—The International Astronautical Congress wound up in Barcelona with disappointed Western scientists concluding the Russians had done a lot of listening and not much talking.

—Dr. John P. Hagen, director of the U.S. satellite program said the rocket which boosted the Soviet satellite into its orbit packed "tremendously larger" power than the one this country plans to use.

THE "BLACK SHEEP" OF OUR FAMILY
When Johnny started Sunday School . . . the Devil thought he had his foot in the door.
The teachers must have been at their wit's end—but they never showed it. The Superintendent faced many a crisis—but always he was patient. The Pastor even smiled as he returned the confiscated pea-shooter. "You're not a bad shot, Johnny," he said!
Claire and I soon began to realize that Christians do turn the other cheek . . . in the Junior Department it's standard operating procedure.
TODAY, Johnny is a freshman in college. Every Sunday he attends the church of our faith near the campus. And, recently, he confided to me his ambitions:
He wants to become an engineer. Then, he wants to marry his childhood sweetheart, Jane. And as soon as they're settled, he wants to teach a class of "real gone" kids in the Junior Department.
Now Claire and I realize what the Church means in the life of the "black sheep"—of your family or ours!
THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship It is a storehouse of spiritual values Without a strong Church neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church They are (1) For his own sake (2) For his children s sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself when needs his moral and material support Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily

Religious Leaders Hold Little Rock Services

Praying for End to Problem Of Integration

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The congregations of 5 churches and synagogues in Little Rock and of several other churches throughout the state hold special services today to pray for the end of integration troubles at Central High School.

Negroes and whites, Protestants and Roman Catholics and Jews, all arranged to hold 30-minute services this morning.

Friday night an estimated 600 segregationists, members of 24 Baptist churches that will not join other Baptist churches in today's services, held their own prayer meeting to ask divine approval of a plan to keep peace in Little Rock through segregation and withdrawal of the nine Negroes integrated into Central High.

Baptist Addresses Crowd

The Rev. M. L. Moser Jr. of the Berean Baptist Church of North Little Rock gave the main address of the meeting, held in Central Baptist Church, of which his father is missionary pastor.

The elder Moser said he wanted to "make it clear this is not a segregation rally, this is a prayer meeting."

He said the group Friday night refused to join with the houses of worship holding meetings today because the services were planned by "Jews, who don't believe in Jesus Christ; Roman Catholics, and modernistic Protestants (who) do not believe in the Virgin Birth of the deity of the Lord Jesus Christ."

Faubus Still Ailing

Faubus, who remained in bed with a touch of the flu, doubted he would attend any of the church services today. He did not attend Friday night's meeting. His doctor told him to stay in the executive mansion and rest until Monday.

Faubus remained determined not to take the initiative in getting the troops withdrawn.

"It's his (Eisenhower's) responsibility," Faubus said. "He got himself into this mess. Let him get himself out."

Troops of the 101st Airborne Division and the federalized National Guard watched the quiet, abandoned school grounds of Central High today at the end of the third week of integrated classes.

Furman, Dent Talk at State Coroners Meet

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Lt. Governor Roy E. Furman told the state convention of The Coroners Association of Pennsylvania Friday that members had an "official" as well as "personal" interest in arresting crime.

"Because your duties affiliate you closely with death, crime, and law enforcement," he said, "you have official as well as personal interest in such problems as crime prevention, juvenile delinquency, safety programs and the punishment of law violators and criminals and their rehabilitation. . ."

State Sen. John D. Dent also addressed the 100 convention delegates. He urged respect for individual rights and deep consideration of human values.

Dr. Edward A. Haegele, Mechanicsburg, Cumberland County, was reelected secretary treasurer and Lester J. Sell, York, was elected assistant secretary treasurer.

Named as chairmer of divisions were:

Northwest: Warren Wood, Erie County; Northcentral: Leroy Bryerton, Luzerne County; Northeast: A. Bryce Sheldon, Wyoming County; Southwest: Robert Halverson, Somerset County; South Central: E. Blair Shore, Huntingdon County.

Ottawa Calmly Awaits Arrival of Elizabeth

OTTAWA (UP)—The citizens of Ottawa, their numbers swelled by half again as many visitors, waited with apparent calm for the arrival today of Queen Elizabeth and her handsome consort, Prince Philip.

Outwardly, the city was as quiet as a small town on Sunday. Some observers said the decorations covering the grey and grimy buildings of Ottawa were skimpier than the bunting brought forth by other royal visits.

However, a reported 150,000 visitors from as far away as Los Angeles and New Orleans crowded in upon the 225,000 residents of Ottawa, assuring a rousing reception when Elizabeth and Philip arrive from London at 4:30 p.m., landing at the Royal Canadian air force station, Uplands Field.

The British Union Jack and Canadian ensigns fly from lamposts, office buildings, hundreds of homes, and every bus. The House of Commons is draped in flags and spotlighted, ready for Elizabeth's appearance Monday to open Parliament.

During their Canadian visit, Elizabeth and Philip will stay at Government House, the 60-room residence of Governor - General Vincent Massey. They will occupy a three-room suite — large bedroom, small sitting room and small bedroom. Their rooms have red carpeting, grey-blue walls, cream colored furniture and chintz draperies.

As her first official duty, Elizabeth will hold a news conference tonight in Ottawa, designated as the capital of Canada by Elizabeth's great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, 100 years ago.

Her Sunday schedule includes church, a radio and television broadcast, and the laying of a wreath at the national war memorial in front of the Parliament buildings.

No Special Session Is Planned - Knowland

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said after a White House conference today that he sees "no likelihood" of a special session of Congress on the lagging U.S. missile and satellite programs.

Knowland was President Eisenhower's guest at a White House breakfast meeting that lasted almost an hour.

The California senator described the session as "just a review of domestic and foreign problems," but conceded that the missile and satellite programs were discussed.

The meeting, following two days of conferences between the President and his top administration aides, was held amid growing congressional demands for an investigation into the missile and satellite programs and a quick speed-up of both.

Knowland, who recently announced his candidacy for governor of California, said he has no intention of relinquishing his post as GOP leader in the Senate until his term expires at the end of 1958. He said he and the President did not discuss California politics.

He said the discussion covered "everything that has happened"—including missile developments—since Congress quit last August.

While the administration has been making a searching reappraisal of its missiles and rockets program, congressional critics have been urging a greater U.S. effort to surpass Russia in the field.

In Madison, Wis., Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) Friday night accused the administration of lagging behind Russia in satellite and rocket development.

In an obvious reference to the President's golf game, Proxmire said "you can't match the Sputnik with a putnik."

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) said the successful Soviet launching means "a much higher priority must now be assigned" to the U.S. satellite program. He said it also was obvious the country needs more scientists and technicians.

Consulate

lay in any announcement of a successor to Mr. L'Heureux involves physical problems such as determining who is available to be moved; and, perhaps more important, making sure that the best man possible is found for the job because of the unique and sensitive role played by the U.S. Consulate in Montreal.

What, exactly is this role? Essentially, it consists of three things: protecting the interests of Americans living or visiting in the area; processing of visas, of the immigrant and non-immigrant category; and creating good relations between Canadians and Americans.

Language Challenge

An indication of the challenges facing Pasquale and his staff—which includes two other consuls heading the visa section and general consular services—and is the fact that they have to deal with 78 different languages at one time or another.

"The reason for this," says Pasquale, "is the unusual position of Montreal as an international centre and the focal and terminal point for trans-Atlantic vessels and airlines."

One of the most important contacts at the consulate at the personal level, particularly by visa applicants, is the vice-counsul upon whom falls the burden of the final interview after the application has been filled and thoroughly checked. The vice-consuls have the responsibility of final approval of the application.

Crosstown Blvd. In Pittsburgh Okayed by U. S.

HARRISBURG (UP) — The proposed 1.8 mile Crosstown Boulevard in Pittsburgh has been approved by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads for construction under the federal primary system.

The state Highways Department announced acceptance of the route by the bureau late Friday. Under the federal primary system, the government shares construction costs on a 50-50 basis.

The new route will begin on the Boulevard of the Allies near the junction of the Liberty bridge over the Monongahela River and extend in a northerly direction through the lower hill district, crossing Seventh Ave. and Bigelow Blvd. near the Pennsylvania Station.

The road will continue across the Allegheny River to a point on East St. on the North side where it will intersect with a proposed interstate route through Warrendale for a connection with the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The department said it completed plans for the proposed route from the Boulevard of the Allies to Forbes St. Location studies on the balance of the route were to begin shortly.

A full schedule of activities is planned with men's swimming classes to start soon.

The opening of the center was delayed a week due to the flu.

New Phone Directories Are Distributed Here

New Bell Telephone Co. directories are being distributed in the Monessen area and distribution is expected to be completed by Tuesday, J. Lawrence Buchanan, district manager, announced today.

Approximately 36,760 copies of the directory will be delivered to telephone customers in this vicinity by a force of 90 men, Buchanon said. This is an increase of 2,230 over last year's distribution.

The new buff-colored book contains approximately 37,200 alphabetical listings, an increase of 1,800 over the last issue. There are also about 5,700 classified listings of business and professional customers in the yellow pages section of the book.

Meanwhile, Buchanan said dial service will be esablished in Donora at 3:01 A. M., Sunday, Oct. 20, at which time all Donora numbers will be changed to Frontier. The new Frontier numbers are listed in the directories now being delivered.

Buchanan stressed that customers should check the directory for new Frontier numbers before making calls to Donora after the change to dial operation.

"Also, new Gypsy telephone numbers for customers in the Fairhope-Arnold City section of the Belle Vernon exchange are listed in the new book," the manager stated.

"Dial service will be furnished these customers starting on October 20 by the unique Gypsy mobile dial office now being prepared for operation."

Buchanan added that instructions for making all local and out-of-town calls are included in the information pages of the directory and urged telephone users to check this information for correct calling methods whenever they are not sure of the proper way to make calls.

Marlon Brando On Honeymoon; Weds Indian

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Film star Marlon Brando, often described as the movie colony's most eligible bachelor, was honeymooning today with Indian actress Anna Kashfi, 23, after their "surprise" marriage in the home of his aunt Friday.

The secret ceremony took place in the home of Mrs. Betty Lindmeyer in nearby Eagle Rock. Word of the quiet marriage, released by friends of Brando, promptly set filmdom agog.

Friends of the actor said the couple had known one another for two years. But Edward Dymtryk, director of Brando's latest film, "The Young Lions," said the marriage came as a "complete surprise" to him and other members of the company.

The 33-year-old Brando met Miss Kashfi casually at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios and later called on her when she suffered a physical breakdown and was hospitalized.

Miss Kashfi is a native of Darjeeling, India, was educated in England and appeared briefly on the stage before being brought to the United States by Dymtryk.

Romulo's Son One of Six In Plane Crash

MANILA (UP—The Civil Aeronautics Administration launched an investigation today into reports that a plane carrying Carlos L. Romulo Jr., four Americans and a Philippine colonel exploded in mid-air before it crashed.

All aboard were killed when the plane cracked up and burned in Batangas Province Friday.

Romulo, 33, was the eldest son of Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, now Philippines ambassador to the United States. Romulo Sr. got the news at the United Nations in New York.

The other victims were Allan O'Gorman, a New York attorney and president of the Findlay Miller Timber Co.; Ralph L. Stover and Zane Duncan, officials of the same company; Harold Broad, president of the U.S. Plywood Corp., and Col. P. I. Gunn, owner and pilot of the plane and general manager of the Philippine Air Development Co.

Transit Strike Meetings Today

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Last ditch efforts were made today to head off a citywide transit strike set for midnight Sunday.

Pittsburgh Railways Company officials agreed to meet with federal and state mediators after Mayor David L. Lawrence entered the negotiations late Friday.

Lawrence acted after negotiators for Division 85, Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railways and Motor Coach Employes of America, rejected a company offer of a wage increase of 16 cents an hour. A union counter proposal called for a 31-cent raise.

The company's 2,200 trolley and bus operators now average $2.14 an hour.

Open Defiance in Teamster Election

SENATOR John McClellan, Democratic chairman of the committee investigating labor and management irregularities, is a man not to be taken lightly. On the basis of records which his committee has, he declares the recent election in the teamsters union is a matter for the courts as well as for legislative investigation.

The teamster convention elected James Hoffa president of the union in spite of a mandate from the parent A.F.L - C.I.O. that Hoffa was a symptom of evil influences and in spite of indications that Congress is about through with the use of the labor movement by punks and thieves.

Senator McClellan says the election was "scandalous" and that Hoffa's election could not have been maneuvered without the "dictatorial action" of the union's top echelon.

Clearly Hoffa's victory not only divides the Teamsters International from the high principled wing of the labor movement, but it also challenges the Congress of the United States to put labor racketeering in a punishable classification.

While it may be argued in theory that a labor union is a club and the club's affairs are its own business, this is obviously not the case with the Teamsters. As the largest union in the country it can literally strangle the transport facilities of the whole nation, and under Hoffa this becomes a distinct possibility.

No one questions the right of the teamsters to organize. But the national interest is most certainly at stake when the union can be so abused by its leaders as testimony has brought out, and when those leaders can perpetuate themselves or their friends by a misuse of the union's constitution and membership.

Purging corruption from his union ought to be a personal project with every dues-paying Teamster. Otherwise he's helping invite restriction and regulation of the whole labor movement.

A Constant Nuisance

IT IS our feeling that Monessen's main downtown streets are torn up by the gas and water utility companies much more often than the community ought to suffer without some very thorough explanation.

The average citizen is inclined to consider his utilities indispensable. At the same time the underground services are frankly a big mystery to most of us. Hence when one of the utility companies hollers emergency, throws up a barricade and digs a trench across Donner Ave., we summon what patience we have and make the most of it.

But in Monessen this business is chronic. The emergency has become routine. The barricade, the compressor and the heap of dirt in the street are becoming part of the downtown scenery.

In some communities a torn-up main street is a thing shunned. When emergency repairs are necessary they are done at night and the street put back in passable form for the day's traffic. This may or may not be a practical possibility in Monessen.

In any event we suggest that the city government exact some satisfying explanation of this continual mess or else advise the regulatory bodies that the companies' methods here need some examination.

Also Take Them Down

WITH THE approach of an election the campaign posters are beginning to blossom. We only wish that when the season is over they would wither and be gone as surely as the flowers and the leaves.

A good bit of the campaign artwork is always posted in places forbidden by the law. This has never bothered anyone enough to do anything about it before, and we see no reason why the present campaign will be any exception.

It would be a fine thing, however, if the candidates who profess so much pride in their community would see to it that their names and faces are withdrawn from public places after the election is over.

Smog is fogging the telescopes of the Sputnik trackers. This makes smoke control a defense measure, and as far as we're concerned it can be made a crash program.

South Dakota farmers threw eggs at Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, but things could have been worse. We understand there are also surpluses of lard and hogs.

Wonder what ever became of Virus X.

GOP Split Widening; Ike Ignored

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Only a year after President Eisenhower's landslide victory, word has gone out to Republican Congressmen from Congressman Dick Simpson of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee: "Vote your district point of view and never mind White House orders."

Mr. Pearson

This means a widening rift inside the Republican party and increasing difficulty in passing any administration program.

As Congressional campaign chief, Simpson is largely responsible for electing a Republican Congress next year. He has warned GOP candidates that the ride on Ike's coattails is over, that his political popularity has dropped drastically.

"Sure, this may mean a party split, but we're politicians. It is our job to get elected," he has told subordinates privately. "There aren't any politicians in the White House. We have tried it their way, and we are losing ground."

He pointed out that three Republican veterans — Congressmen John Taber of New York, John Vorys of Ohio, and Les Arends of Illinois — are in political trouble at home for supporting the President's foreign aid program. All three will probably face primary opposition from anti-Eisenhower Republicans.

In an attempt to head off a party split, GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn has held several secret conferences with Simpson. All this has accomplished is prevent open Republican warfare.

"There is no divorce yet," Simpson remarked privately after a recent huddle with Alcorn. "We are living in separate bedrooms from the Eisenhower Republicans now. The divorce papers are drawn up and ready to sign."

Note — In an off-the-cuff speech to Republican women at Colorado Springs last month, Simpson came the closest to an open public break with the Eisenhower wing.

"The only way to elect Republicans," he told the ladies, "is when Republicans run as Republicans and not as 'me-tooers.'"

Accidental Moon

The Air Force may have beaten Russia into space this summer with the first man-made satellite — though it was an accident. An nose cone on a guided missile misfired and could still be whizzing around the earth.

The bullet-shaped nose cone, about 18 inches long and polished smooth as glass, was catapulted into space by the experimental X-17 which the Air Force has been using to blaze the way for the intercontinental Atlas.

The Air Force has been shooting the three-stage X-17 to the edges of outer space. There the missile normally noses downward, and the third stage fires the cone downward at terrific speed into the earth's atmosphere. Purpose of the experiment is to duplicate the conditions the Atlas's warhead will encounter when it plunges into the atmosphere.

In this particular case, however, the nose cone was blasted upward instead of downward. Air Force scientists are convinced it was traveling at sufficient speed to launch it in an orbit around the earth. Of course, it wasn't equipped with radio or instruments that would make it possible to track as in the case of the Soviet Sputnik.

Meanwhile, Uncle Sam's official satellite project "Vanguard" has bogged down at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The American "moon" has to be boosted into the air with a 3-stage launching device of which the second and third stages have been successfully test-fired. But the crucial first stage, which must lift the other two off the ground, has been waiting a month for its test flight.

General Electric built the crucial first-stage engines. They were accepted for delivery after undergoing several 2½-minute ground tests. The tests were successful and no parts had to be replaced. But this was only on the ground.

When the rocket was loaded with dummy second and third stages, the Navy was not able to get it off the ground. The excuse is that a better fuel is needed.

X-Ray Danger

Radiologists now warn that thousands of people yearly are needlessly injured by incorrect use of X-ray equipment.

Worst offenders are dentists and general practitioners who can bus X-ray machines and fluoroscopes even though they lack special training in their use. Patients can absorb dangerous radioactivity, threatening their ability to have children and possibly even shortening their own lives or causing cancer.

The problem has always existed, but it has been dramatized by public discussion of the danger from nuclear weapon "fall-out." Fluoroscopes can be especially dangerous.

As a result, even trained radiologists are today re-examining their methods to reduce patients' exposure.

A rule of thumb is to avoid the use of X-rays whenever possible. Broken bones, for example, can often be discovered by touch. Dentists can avoid the reckless use of X-rays by probing for cavities, then X-raying only those teeth where definite cavities are suspected.

Experts point out that, as a general rule, X-ray machines and fluoroscopes should be used only when other methods cannot be substituted. It's also important that the equipmtnt be correctly calibrated, so the doctor knows exactly how much radiation is being administered. He should use a proper shield, so X-rays are not sprayed needlessly over the patient's body but confined only to the part under examination or treatment. This applies especially to dental X-rays and chest X-rays for TB detection. If done properly, the exposure to radioactivity during a chest X-ray is slight.

Today and Tomorrow—

The Portent of the Moon

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The few who are allowed to know about such things, and are able to understand them, are saying that the launching of so big a satellite signifies that the Soviets are much ahead of this country in the development of rocket missiles. Their being so much ahead cannot be the result of some kind of lucky guess in inventing a gadget. It must be that there is a large body of Soviet scientists, engineers, and production men, plus many highly developed subsidiary industries, all successfully directed and coordinated, and bountifully financed.

Mr. Lippmann

In short, the fact that we have lost the race to launch the satellite, means that we are losing the race to produce ballistic missiles. This in turn means that the United States and the Western world may be falling behind in the progress of science and technology.

This is a grim business. It is grim, in my mind at least, not because I think the Soviets have such a lead in the race of armaments that we may soon be at their mercy. Not at all. It is a grim business because a society cannot stand still. If it loses the momentum of its own progress, it will deteriorate and decline, lacking purpose and losing confidence in itself.

Critical Question

The critical question is how we as a people, from the President down, will respond to what is a profound challenge to our cultural values — not to the ideal of the American way of life but — to the way in fact we have been living our life. One response could be to think of it all in terms of propaganda, and to look around for some device for doing something spectacular to outmatch what the Russians have done. The other response would be to look inward upon ourselves, and to concern ourselves primarily with our own failings, and to be determined not so much to beat the Russians as to cure ourselves.

The question then might be defined in this way: Why is it that in the twelve years that have passed since the end of World War II, the United States which was so far in the lead has been losing its lead to the Russians who at the end of the war were so nearly prostrate? Mr. Khrushchev would say, no doubt, that this is because Communism is superior to capitalism. But that answer really begs the question, which is not why the Soviets have moved ahead so fast but why we, who had moved very fast, have not been moving fast enough. For while our society is undoubtedly progressive, it has not in the post-war years been progressive enough.

I do not pretend to know the whole answer to what is for us and for our future so fateful a question. But I venture to think that even now we can discern certain trends that since the World War have appeared in American life and must be taken into account.

We must put first, I think, the enormous prosperity in which, as the politicians have put it to the voters, the private standard of life is paramount as against the public standard of life. By the public standard of life I mean such necessities as defense, education, science, technology, the arts. Our people have been led to believe in the enormous fallacy that the highest purpose of the American social order is to multiply the enjoyment of consumer goods. As a result, our public institutions, particularly those having to do with education and research, have been, as compared with the growth of our population, scandalously starved.

Change Our Thinking

We must put second, I think, a general popular disrespect for, and even suspicion of, brains and originality of thought. In other countries, in Germany and in most of Europe and in Russia, it is an honor, universally recognized, to be a professor. Here it is something to put a man on the defensive, requiring him to show that he is not a highbrow and that he is not subversive.

What McCarthyism did to the inner confidence of American scientists and thinkers has constituted one of the great national tragedies of the post-war era. It is impossible to measure the damage. But the damage that was done was very great. It was done in the kind of thinking where the difference between creation and routine lies in the special courage to follow the truth wherever it leads.

With prosperity acting as a narcotic, with Philistinism and McCarthyism rampant, our public life has been increasingly doped and without purpose. With the President in a kind of partial retirement, there is no standard raised to which the people can repair. Thus we drift with no one to state our purposes and to make policy, into a chronic disaster like Little Rock. We find ourselves then without a chart in very troubled waters.

Crow Is the Entertainer Of Nation's Woodlands

By JOHN H. DAY

The long file of roving crows sagged and dipped in lazy flight across the sky. Now that October is here many of the clan fellows start gathering in loosely knit flocks, ready to spend the winter in genial fellowship, sharing some common roosting place. This rookery will usually be in a pine or hemlock forest where biting blasts and driving snows cannot get at the cozy occupants. There were several hundred in the nomadic gang which kept drifting across the countryside. Two or three would pass over in direct flight. Then would come a baker's dozen, breasting the vast ocean of air in labored, ragged columns.

The crow is a freebooter, and he has some very bad habits. But even though the hand of the farmer and the sportsman is against him, he knows no fear and is smart and clever enough to take care of himself. His love "song" is a ludicrous vocal attempt but his cheerful clarion call on a frigid winter morning heartens the farmer at his early chores and speeds the schoolboy trudging down the country lane to the bus stop.

The crow is one of my favorite birds. He can be an entertaining clown, a hopped-up hater when bedeviling owl or hawk, and a wily, most intelligent individual where his domestic affairs are concerned. I never lack for woodland entertainment so long as a pair or two of these black rascals are in the vicinity. They make make sure that every nook and corner of the woods are alerted to the fact of my trespassing.

Headed North

Strangely enough, that ragged file of crows was journeying northward, an odd direction when all other feathered migrants have their sights set due south. Somewhere up there in the northern hills is the hemlock covert which will welcome this motley army back each evening from the day's search for provender in stubble field and by streamside. Take the crow out of the picture and the countryside would never be the same to outdoorsmen who know and loved old Corvus.

The woolly bear is on the prowl again, another sure sign that October has come on stage. I see him everywhere on the highway before the car, bustling along as though he were hurrying to a fire sale. I call him "uncle Hairy", but most folks know him as the woolly bear. Some even give him credit for enough weather wisdom to foretell the type of winter ahead by the shadings on his furry costume.

Woolly bear, of course, is the brown furry caterpillar now rushing about seeking a place to curl up for his winter sleep. He'll snooze away under a board or a piece of bark until next March or April, when he'll weave himself a cocoon and really sleep out the rest of the cold months as a pupa, to emerge when the time is ripe as the Isabella tiger moth. Watch for him along the highways, He is familiar with all routes.

Wild cherry sapling, sassafras edgings, sumac stations and blackberry tangles are showing the colors of October in the abandoned old-fields along the highway. I doubt if this will be a gypsy year, with red-gold fires flaring across the hills. The drouth of the summer just past has probably ruined the fall spectacle. But the wild cherry and the blackberry don't know about such things. They have donned their gypsy costumes and are most beautiful to behold.

The countryman loiters in October's thickets, noting thistle-down and the silken balloons of the milkweed floating like silver motes against the blue. Dark shadows now seem sharply cut against the sunlit fields. October has its own light burden of odor, perhaps the faintly pungent aroma of ripened leaves. The wind whispers to these leaves now, and they follow, coming gracefully to the ground, here one and there another.

The trees change their voices in October as well as their shapes. No longer do they whisper to one another in muffled tones as they did in summer. They talk in a different leaf-language now The wind moves through the boughs like fingers drawn across a harp, filling the air with the harsh dry sound of sapless leaves. This murmuring counterpoint of dead leaves is the main theme of October's music. And the theme sings of days that should be made the most of, gorgeous October days that have brought the perfected ripeness of the year and display it in the fullness of its glory.

National Affairs—

U. S. Satellite a Must Before First of Year

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States plan to begin next December the firing of test satellites into outer space is in line with urgent Republican political necessities.

If it is a successful firing—and it better be—the U.S. Sputnik will be in outer space when Congress reassembles here in the first week of January.

Anything short of the successful launching of a space satellite by the United States before Congress reconvenes would leave the Eisenhower administration in a bad spot.

Next year is an election year in which the foreseeable trouble for the Republican Party and the Eisenhower administraton already is sufficient to give party men the gollywobbles.

On the record of the current fiscal year to date, the Eisenhower administration is unable to hold the spending line at the point where the President insisted that his department heads hold it. Neither the President nor the Budget Bureau offers more than faint hope and good intentions toward reducing spending and taxes in the immediate years to come.

New Figures In January

Eisenhower must come up with new budget figures next January. Another spending program of 70 billion dollars or more with no tax relief seems to be in the works. It will invite all over again next year the high tax, high spending rebellion of 1957.

That would be trouble enough for any lot of politicians but there is more. Inflation is still with us making the high cost of living higher month by month. Elements of the U.S. Army remain on duty in Little Rock, Ark., and none knows how they may, finally, be got out of there.

Moreover, the most severe test of the Supreme Court's order for the racial integration of public schools still is to come in the Deep South. In those states the people appear to be solidly behind the determination of their state officials to undertake massive resistance.

There may be some political comfort for Republicans in the possibility that the dispute over racial integration of public schools will lure northern millions of Negroes into the Republican Party. Aside from that, the Republican prospect in next year's congressional election is grimly unpleasant.

GOP Voted Out

Eisenhower achieved two personal triumphs in the presidential elections of 1952 and 1956. The Republicans won a scratch decision in the 1952 congressional contest but were voted out of congressional power in 1954 and even last year, when Eisenhower was piling up his presidential points.

In the year since his reelection in 1956, Eisenhower's personal popularity has slipped. Democrats no longer fear to make personal political attacks on him. Republican politicians are critical and the word in Washington is that the party organization, coast to coast, is in disrepair.

The Republicans are the congressional outs and should be on the political offensive as the off-year campaign approaches. But that is not the way the cookie crumbles. What used to be regarded widely as the Grand Old Party is back to the wall in defense of the modern Republican administration and of its minority position in Congress.

ON THE BALL

Dayton High on Carl Crawley

Dayton University's athletic department is singing the praises of former Monessen High fullback, Carl Crawley, as the Flyer Frosh prep for their season opener with the Miami U. freshmen this afternoon . . . Crawley, an All-Big Six choice here for two seasons, both at tackle and fullback, has the starting line-plunging duties sewed up and is being hailed as "one of the finest football players ever to turn up on the Dayton campus" . . These words of praise come from Coach Stan Zajdel . . . Another former Greyhound athlete doing quite well at Dayton is Dave Obade, 6-4, 240 pound frosh tackle . . . Crawley is listed at 210, 6-1.

Here's the latest report from our traveling buddy, Lou Kichinko. He arrived in Mexico and naturally the first place he looked for was a sports site, this time the home of the Monterrey Little League National Champions . . . He writes that he saw kids with no shoes and no shirts still playing baseball . . . After visiting the Little Leaguers' home town he headed for the University of Mexico to see a football game between Mexico and Joe Young College in the beautiful (on front of post card) MU Stadium . . . Notre Dame hasn't experienced two losing seasons in succession since 1887-88, when the sport first got its Fighting Irish start, a thought that should be of some consolation to ND Coach Terry Brennan.

Gus' Trainer Almost Does It

Gus Brickner, the valley's Cold Water Swimming Champion, felt terrible when they had to pull him from the water during his attempted swim of the English Channel but he felt even worse about another "almost" swim of the Channel which fell short . . . A letter received this week informed Gus that Georges Pourcelle, the Frenchman who trained Gus for the valley man's swim, tried to make the swim himself but bucked a storm and had to be forcibly pulled from the water just one (yes 1) mile short of his goal . . . He was exhausted from fighting the storm and could go no further . . . Gus and Georges will take a crack at a channel marathon event next year . . . If they make it from the swim) they'll stay in England and attempt an England to France trip, otherwise they'll try the France to England route . . . Gus will address the Ladies of the Moose at California at an anniversary dinner tomorrow evening at 6:00 o'clock.

West Virginia will have its first deer season since 1950 this year with the bow and arrow addicts getting first crack, from now through Nov. 30 . . . Firearms may be used only from December 2 until 7 . . . Rostraver Junior High principal James Leeper, is also a well-known district grid official, so he was hit doubly hard with cancellations recently . . . First of all his own school could not play its games and now has only one tilt on the completed side of the ledger in addition to all that Leeper has lost several games in which he was scheduled to officiate when the participating schools postponed or cancelled.

Homecoming Tilt on Air Today

Frank Buscanics, popular valley sportscaster will be a mighty busy man today . . . First of all he has his sports show, around 11 o'clock in the morning . . . then he'll follow that by moderating a K of C program being broadcast by Belle Vernon Council 3026 . . . And if that wasn't enough he'll air the California Teachers-Shippensburg homecoming grid contest at California . . . A large crowd is expected to be on hand with bands from both schools providing the between-halves entertainment . . . Here's wishing a speedy recovery to our predecessor at this desk (and our good friend) Allen Kline . . . He's recuperating from a recent illness at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital (Room No. 208).

Today's Sports Parade—

Yanks Could Have Used Gomez-After Final Tilt

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — This was after the last game of the World Series—which they just had lost—and as the Yankees sat there with their heads drooping and their spirits low it came to you that they could have used the man called Lefty Gomez.

It carried you back to another time these same Yankees dropped the whole ball of wax and sat, much the same although the faces were different, before their lockers. That was when the man they called "Goofy" marched bravely to the door, looked back, summoned a grin and raised a much needed laugh by announcing:

"Okay, fellows. The victory dinner will be at Horn and Hardart's."

They howled and snapped out of it. Which is what they needed after falling before the battling Milwaukee Braves.

Lefty Antics Recalled

There is no Lefty Gomez on the Yankees, or any other ball club these days. Which probably is why they talk about him so much whenever they gather in those chin sessions which ball players love.

"I remember," one was saying during the Series, "the time Lefty was pitching after being out three months with an injury. In the first inning, somebody was struck by a batted ball and everybody fled to the shade of the dugout while the player was being treated. Lefty just stood there on the mound, in the broiling heat, and finally manager Joe McCarthy beckoned to him to come in off the field.

" 'Oh, no,' Lefty shook his head at McCarthy. 'It took me three months to get out here and you're not going to get me out of this game that easy.' "

Scorns Gehringer's Hitting

Another recalled the time Lefty was riding on a train and studying the batting averages of the American Leaguers. Finally he pointed a scornful finger at the name of Charley Gehringer, who was hitting a stratospheric .380 and said:

"Look at the bum. He's through."

"What do you mean 'through?' " he was asked. "Hitting .380 is great."

"Maybe." El Goofy said. "But he was hitting .380 on opening day and he hasn't gained an inch."

They always boasted, on the Yankee clubs of which Goofy was a member, about how smart was Frankie Crosetti. So one day, Gomez fielded a sure double play ball and, instead of throwing to the shortstop covering the bag, flipped it to the amazed Crosetti at third.

"He's so smart," said Gomez. "I just wanted to see what he would do with it."

Gomez always can end the conversation when people come up to him and ask whether Yogi Berra is as dumb as he is supposed to be.

"Sure he is," Gomez cracks. "He has two houses, two Cadillacs, a bowling alley and an interest in a soft drink firm. Sure, he's dumb. How else do you get those kind of things?"

Charleroi, Ambridge Out of Race

GREYHOUNDS GO IVY LEAGUE — Al Gaudio, local men's store proprietor, felt that since the Monessen High School Greyhound gridders have to spend so much time on the street with their games postponed due to the flu they should be wearing the latest style. He presented each member of the 'Hound squad with an Ivy League hat in the school colors of black and white.

Over 7,000 Valley Fans Watch Both Bow Out in 7-7 Tie

Charleroi, the Mon Valley (Big Five) Conference's hope in the 1957 WPIAL race and Ambridge, carrying the hopes of the Beaver Valley, eliminated each other following a 7-7 deadlock before over 7,000 fans at Charleroi Stadium last night.

The game was the only one played in the flu-ridden Monongahela Valley.

The Cougars scored on the opening kickoff, driving 69 yards down the field with Ron Cosner eating up the final five yards on a keeper play. Cosner's running and passes to Tim Lee and Ollie Payne and sparked the drive. Cosner booted the extra point.

The lead held up until the fourth quarter when the Bridgers stopped a CHS threat on their own six-yard line and went 94 yards to paydirt. The payoff play was a pass from Harry Yoos to John Osequeda, which covered 71 yards. Enrico Antonini, rtgular fullback, who was sidelined by injuries last night, came in long enough to tie the game with a perfect placement.

Later in the final period, Ambridge drove from its own 41 to the Charleroi 7 where a fumble was recovered by Joe Uhlman, Cougar halfbacks, CHS then held the ball until the game ended.

Tim Lee had recovered a fumble to put Charleroi on the Ambridge 4 early in the fourth period but the Bridger line held and the visitors began their touchdown drive at this point.

Each team had several other threats but outstanding line play by each team contained all of them.

The close nature of the game was indicatel by the 13-12 first down advantage gained by the Bridgers.

Score by Periods:

Ambridge	0	0	0	7—7
Charleroi	7	0	0	0—7

Touchdowns: Ambridge-Osequeda; Charleroi-Cosner.

EXTRA POINTS — Ambridge-Antonini (placement); Charleroi-Cosner (placement).

OFFICIALS — Mehaffey, Joyce, Stipp, O'Neil.

In another AA contest, Mt. Lebanon eliminated Washington, 20-14, at Washington.

Other Class AA games included a 13-0 win by McKeesport over New Castle and a victory by Clairton over Munhall, 31-13.

In Class A competition Mt. Pleasant, Ramsay and Monaca were eliminated.

Monessen Teams in Mon Valley Split

Mon Valley League action last night saw Monessen Myfords cop a 2-1 victory over Uniontown while the other Monessen entry, Villa Nova dropped a 2-1 decision to Donora.

Top scorers were Larry Evancho for Myfords with a 224-572 and Carmen Polito for Uniontown with a 178-492, C. Vlasic for Villa Nova with a 193-501 and B. Johnston of Donora, a 207-565. Vlasic leads the league in averages with a 178.2.

Casey Says Help On the Way For Beaten Yankees

NEW YORK (UP)—Casey Stengel says don't get excited, help is on the way.

"We know we got problems and we're gonna do something about 'em," the Yankee manager explained today.

"They tell me we have a lotta talent on our farm clubs—Denver and Richmond — and if we can't get what we need there, we may even make a deal."

Stengel said he would have a clearer picture of the Yankees' outlook for 1958 after he conferred with General Manager George Weiss within the next few days. It is no secret, though, that Casey is looking for a left fielder.

"I played a lot of guys there this year," he said. "Some were fair and others didn't do so good. We might have someone in our organization who can do the job, or maybe even Tony Kubek."

Regardless of whether Norm Siebern, a Denver graduate, or Kubek inherits the post, it certainly appears that veteran Enos Slaughter's days with the Yankees are numbered. At 41, Slaughter still gives it the old college try but he doesn't figure in the club's long-range plans.

Among the players they are willing to give up in a winter deal, are pitchers Don Larsen, Art Ditmar and Al Cicotte; infielders Andy Carey, Gerry Coleman, Harry Simpson and Joe Collins, and outfielder Slaughter.

The way matters stand now, the White Sox are eager for Carey; the Orioles are interested in Simpson, and the Red Sox and Senators wouldn't be adverse to making a deal for Larsen.

St. James Ahead in St. Sebastian League

St. James stood atop the Belle Vernon Knights of Columbus Bowling League standings today following a sweep of the St. Joseph entry this week while St. Sebastian blanked St. Johns.

Joe Ferrari of St. James paced all bowlers with a 201-462 card for both the single game and three-game high. Other top point-makers were J. Halgas, Ken Stickel, Bap Viviani, Rudy Halgas and Sam Fiorino. Stickel rolled a 197 single and shared second three-game honors with Viviani with a 420.

Standings — St. James 11-7; St. Sebastian 10-8, St. John 8-10 and St. Joseph 7-11.

Soccer Tilts Sunday

Two Washington County Soccer League games are on tap for Sunday with Van Voorhis at Gallatin and Roscoe hosting Avella.

A full card is also set in the Keystone and Greater Pittsburgh Leagues.

Local Juniors, Jayvees Awaiting Grid Action

Monessen High School's Junior High and Junior Varsity elevens hope to get back into football action next week after being idle since the first game of the season.

Monday night the Jayvees are scheduled to meet Brownsville's Junior Varsity at Brownsville.

Wednesday night the Coach Al Romasco's Junior High eleven will travel to Charleroi to battle the Little Cougars.

The playing of both of these games will hinge on the flu situation, which has postponed or cancelled all other games since the openers.

Opened with Wins

The Jayvees, under Coach Harry McCurdy opened the season with a 34-020 victory over McKeesport then saw games with Uniontown and Clairton postponed. Monday's game is a 7:30 o'clock contest.

Romasco's Juniors started with a 13-7 win over Brownsville Junior High. The next two starts with Donora and Monongahela were called off when the flu bug hit too deeply into the ranks of both the locals and their foes.

Armand Niccolai's varsity eleven is in the same boat, perhaps even worse off than the Juniors and Jayvees. The locals were originally scheduled to play a postponed Brownsville game (from Friday) Monday night but the tilt was postponed again. Redstone is next on the Greyhound card but the flu just hit there last week and Republic school officials feel they may not be able to play. If that is the case Hempfield, whom the locals should have played last week will fill in, again providing the Spartan gridders have recovered sufficiently from the flu.

Harness Racing At Arden Today

One of the biggest sports events in Washington County history will take place at Arden Downs this afternoon when the nation's top two-year-old harness horses race in the Arden Downs Stake No. 1.

The Grand Circuit meeting here will start at 1:30 p.m. with at least 10 and possible 14 heats on the card.

The country's top drivers will be driving their best horses, and indications are the winners in the four stake events may well be able to claim horse-of-the-year honors in their respective divisions.

Ray Steen High in Fabric Mixed League

Standings — Kings 8-4, Aces 7-5, Jackes 6-6 and Queens 4-8.

The Tigers and Leopards won out over the Panthers and Lions in Monessen Democratic Women's Bowling League action this week.

Mary Jane D'Annibale had the best three-game card of 381 and also posted the best single game, a 135, although closely pressed by Rose Grillo with a 134-378 chart. Others high in the scoring list were Ida Skomsky and Mary Katsuleris.

Pro Bowl Game Set for Jan. 12 In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UP) — The eighth annual Pro Bowl game between the all-stars of the Eastern and Western conferences of the National Football League will be held in Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Jan. 12, 1958, Managing Director Paul Schissler announced today.

The game will be sponsored by the Los Angeles Newspaper Publishers Association with profits going to chairty. The newspapers have sponsored the annual classic since its inception.

The West All-Stars hold a 4-3 edge in the seven games played thus far. Last year the West scored a 19-10 victory chiefly on the four field goals kicked by Bert Rechichar of the Baltimore Colts, one of which was for 54 yards.

The game will be telecast nationally by NBC but the Los Angeles area will be blacked out.

Players for the two all-star teams are selected by the vote of fans and by sportswriters covering NFL games and the two teams are coached by the mentors of the Eastern and Western conference championship clubs.

West Newton Plays Today

West Newton and East Huntingdon will meet in a WPIAL Class B contest at East Huntingdon tonight at 9 o'clock. The game was postponed from last night.

The Hornets are the only district eleven seeing action tonight, all other games having been postponed or cancelled due to the flu.

The tentative lineup for the Hornets shows DeNoble and Lander at the ends, Parker and Page at the tackles and Mauk and McCorkle, guards. Trillow will start at center. The backfield will find Specht and Dixon at the halves. Lander or Moorhead at fullback and Leone at quarterback.

Ruth Koget High In St. Leonards

St. Theresa and St. Elizabeth won out over St. Cecelia and St. Ann in St. Leonard League Bowling action this week.

Ruth Koget had the top three-game score with a 460 while Elizabeth Hricko showed the top single mark of 183. Others in the scoring parade were Martha Drusash, Mary Major, Pegge George and Mary Carrotto.

Standings — St. Theresa, 13-5, St. Ceclia 8-10, St. Elizabeth 8-10, St. Ann 7-11.

Providence All Alone Atop AHL Despite Illness

By UNITED PRESS

The Providence Reds, although weakened by the loss of several flu-ridden players, are resting alone atop the American Hockey League today.

Struck hard by the flu epidemic last week, the Reds quickly sent for Camille Bedard on emergency recall from Three Rivers of the Quebec League and also employed two local high school stars. It was Bedard who scored the first goal last night and assisted on another to lead Providence to a 5-3 victory over Buffalo, the second consecutive win for last year's pennant winners.

Rookies, forced into action by the flu that bedded eight of the Reds, also accounted for three of the other four goals. Dan Belisle scored twice and Billy Sweeney once. Veteran Zellio Toppazzini registered the other Providence score, his third of the young season.

Buffalo, in dropping its second contest, scored all its goals late in the final period. Ken Wharram received credit for two and Dick Gamble had one.

No other games were scheduled.

Logart Decisions Joey Miceli

DETROIT (UP) — Cuban Isaac Logart today looked forward to a spot in the eliminations for the vacant welterweight title after easily disposing of "one-armed" Joe Miceli here Friday night.

"The fight went just the way we planned it," the No. 2 ranked contender said. "I didn't have any trouble with him."

Miceli did have Logart in trouble, however, in the second round of their 10-round nationally-televised bout. The 28-year-old New Yorker drove Logart against the ropes with a furious combination of short lefts and rights.

Logart covered up expertly after the barrage, rode out the brief storm, and didn't let Miceli get another such golden opportunity. Miceli further was hampered by his own right arm.

"I just don't have any power in it," he said. It was conspicuous by its absence. He had to use his left like a hammer but the blows showed no effect on Logart.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Big, Bad Trap Shots?

For the normal trap shot, in which the ball is not buried, open your stance, sink your feet into the sand for support; and, as you hit, contact the ball first. Cock your wrists late on the backswing, late on the downswing, and keep your right elbow close to your body.

When the ball is buried, the clubhead must hit the sand first to get the club sole below center of the ball at impact and allow the club-loft to lift it out.

To lift a ball of a sand trap over a bank, play a cut shot to get immediate height. Open your stance, choke the club, and open the clubface. Make the swing short with more wrist than the normal sand-trap shot and be sure to follow through on it.

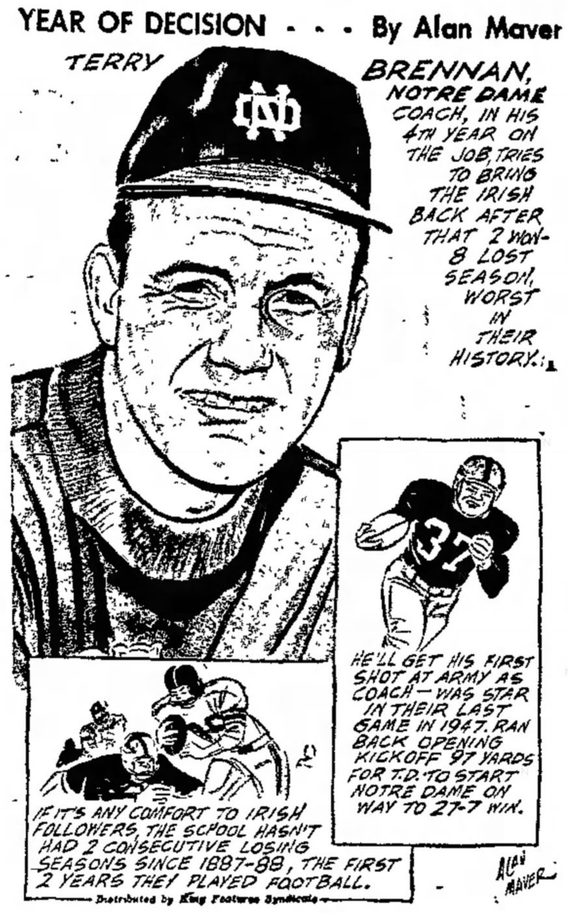
Over 100,000 Fans to Witness Army-Notre Dame Renewal Today



YEAR OF DECISION . . . By Alan Maver
TERRY BRENNAN, NOTRE DAME COACH, IN HIS 4TH YEAR ON THE JOB, TRIES TO BRING THE IRISH BACK AFTER THAT 2 WON-8 LOST SEASON, WORST IN THEIR HISTORY.
HE'LL GET HIS FIRST SHOT AT ARMY AS COACH—WAS STAR IN THEIR LAST GAME IN 1947. RAN BACK OPENING KICKOFF 97 YARDS FOR T.D. TO START NOTRE DAME ON WAY TO 27-7 WIN.
IF IT'S ANY COMFORT TO IRISH FOLLOWERS, THE SCHOOL HASN'T HAD 2 CONSECUTIVE LOSING SEASONS SINCE 1887-88, THE FIRST 2 YEARS THEY PLAYED FOOTBALL.
ALAN MAVER
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

By RUSS GREEN

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Hobbled Notre Dame and tough Army renewed an ancient football rivalry after a 10-year lapse today with 100,000 fans jamming Municipal Stadium to see the nation's top attraction of the day.

Coach Terry Brennan of the Fighting Irish flew into town with two regulars injured and a squad riddled with flu that made Army's one-point favorite rating look better than ever.

Brennan was noticeably glum as he took his team to a motel in suburban Paoli and ran it through a light, secret workout on a nearby field.

"We're just hoping for the best," said Brennan, a halfback hero who sparked Notre Dame to a 27-7 victory the last time the teams met in 1947.

The Irish were without the services of star halfback Aubrey Lewis, who didn't even make the trip east, and Co-Captain Ed Sullivan, a fixture at center. Both were sidelined with ailing ankles.

Nagurski Also Out

Brennan announced that Bob Scholtz would replace Sullivan and Frank Reynolds would fill the breach for Lewis. He also revealed that Don Lawrence had ousted Bronko Nagurski Jr., as a starter at right tackle.

Twenty-five Notre Dame players were stricken with the flu during the week but Brennan said all were recovering. It remained to be seen, however, how much effectiveness the bout with flu had drained from the squad. Three starters, halfback Dick Lynch, end Gary Myers and guard Jim Schaaf, had been bedridden by the "bug" now sweeping the country.

Army coach Earl (Red) Blaik reported his whole squad "healthy." That included his rock-ribbed line and "some good passers" who, he promised, "might do a lot of throwing" against Notre Dame.

Irish Unscored Upon

The two schools went into their 35th meeting unbeaten, both having won their first two games. Notre Dame, which had a disastrous 2-8 record last year, gained impressive triumphs over Purdue and Indiana, neither of whom was able to score on the Irish. The Cadets, meanwhile, were thumping Nebraska, 42-0, and Penn Sate 27-13.

West Point's strong line is anchored by Stan Slater, Jim Kernan and Bill Graf for the Notre Dame renewal, which will be televised regionally. It also has swift, hard-hitting backs in Bob Anderson, Pete Dawkins and Vince Barta, and a brainy quarterback in Dave Bourland.

The glamorous series began innocently enough 44 years ago when West Point Cadet Harold Loomis sent feeler invitations to eight schools to fill an unexpected open date. Notre Dame Coach Jess Harper replied promptly and the battle was on. The Irish hold a 23-7-4 edge in the vendetta.

The crowd included the entire West Point cadet corps of 2,320 and a delegation of 500 students from South Bend.

Panthers Choice Over Flu-Ridden Nebraska

By UNITED PRESS

The University of Pittsburgh went after its third straight football victory today against an underdog, flu-riddled Nebraska team.

Forty-thousand fans were expected at Pitt Stadium to witness the game. In past meetings of the teams Pitt won 14 games, lost 3 and 3 games ended in ties.

Sophomore Ivan Toncic was to start at quarterback for the Panthers as a replacement for first stringer Bill Kaliden, who was injured on Pitt's western trip.

Penn State was host to William and Mary in a tilt which the oddsmakers said the Lions should win by three touchdowns. Thirty-thousand were expected to see the contest at Beaver Field.

Carnegie Tech met the Bucknell Bisons at Forbes Field. Tech went into the contest with one loss against no victories while Bucknell's record was two victories and one loss.

The game was the first meeting of the two school elevens.

Grove City played the 500th game in its football history, dating back to 1890, as it hosted Edinboro.

Other games today: Westminster, unbeaten in 23 starts, hosted Bethany; Allegheny played at Oberlin; Thiel hosted Hobart; Slippery Rock was at Indiana; Geneva played West Liberty at Moundsville, W. Va.; Shippensburg was at California; Bloomsburg State Teachers was at Mansfield, Ohio; Juniata met Moravian; Lock Haven State Teachers played East Stroudsburg; Waynesburg played West Virginia Tech and Washington and Jefferson met Case Tech.

St. Vincent's plays St. Joseph's of Indiana, at Latrobe Sunday.

Parker Counting On Morrall, Dean Derby for Punch

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Steeler coach Buddy Parker will be depending on the passing of Earl Morrall and the running punch of rookie Dean Derby to give the Pittsburgh team a victory over the Chicago Cardinals here Sunday.

The Cards have not won a game at Forbes Field since 1948. However, coach Ray Richards' team finished second in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League last year and are rated to give Pittsburgh a tough fight. Oddsmakers are calling the game an even tilt.

There was the possibility some key Steeler players will be disabled for the game. Backs Dick Young and Bill Bowman and defensive end Bill McPeak may be able to see only spot action.

Another 'Upset' Week End Seen In College Gridiron Contests

By TIM MORIARTY

Based on the early returns, this could be another "upsetting" week end for college football's top dogs.

In three major games Friday night, North Carolina followed up its upset victory over Navy by surprising Miami, 20-13; Missouri turned back heavily-favored Southern Methodist, 7-6, and three-time loser Georgia struck down Tulane, 13-6.

A crowd of 47,116 in the Orange Bowl watched Jim Tatum's Tarheels knock off 6-point favored Miami. North Carolina opened a 12-0 halftime lead on touchdowns by Jim Schuler and Emil Decantis, then scored its decisive TD in the third quarter on a line plunge by Ron Marquette.

Miami made it close on second-half scores by John Varone and Bill Sandie. The favored Hurricaner twice carried to the Carolina 20 in the final three minutes but were turned back each time.

Missouri completed only one pass against Southern Methodist—a 10-yard flip from Phil Snowden to George Cramer — and it was good for a second-period touchdown. Charley Rash then added the decisive extra point. The Mustangs scored in the third quarter on a pass from Billy Dunn to Leon Rudolph, but Dunn failed to convert.

Georgia, after successive defeats by Texas, Vanderbilt and Michigan, finally clicked against Tulane before an estimated 30,000 fans in the Sugar Bowl. Jimmy Orr turned in the Bulldogs' winning touchdown on a nine-yard burst on the first play of the fourth quarter.

Halfback Mike Sommer's two touchdowns helped George Washington upset the Air Force Academy 20-0, before 12,000 spectators, including President Eisenhower, at Washington and the rushing of Frank Deprete carried Wofford to a 34-0 victory over The Citadel.

In Saturday's key games, Army and Notre Dame renew their football rivalry at Philadelphia, Michigan and Michigan State crack heads in their golden anniversary game at Ann Arbor, and long-time foes Oklahoma and Texas meet in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

Upwards of 100,000 persons are expected to watch the Army-Notre Dame encounter, which will be televised in New England and the North Atlantic states and broadcast nationally. The Irish enter the game unbeaten, unscored upon — and unhealthy. Twenty-five Notre Dame players were stricken with the flu during the week while fleet halfback Aubrey Lewis and center Ed Sullivan were sidelined with ankle injuries.

A crowd of 101,000 will sit in on the Michigan-Michigan State battle, which shaped up as a good "air show." Second-ranked State completed 62 per cent of its pass attempts in whipping Indiana and California while the fifth-ranked Wolverines posted a 57 per cent aerial mark in conquering USC and Georgia.

Sooners Big Favorite

Top-ranked Oklahoma invades the Cotton Bowl as a big favorite to extend its winning streak through 43 games. Texas got off to a good start this season by beating Georgia and Tulane but was upset last week by South Carolina. This latest Sooner-Longhorn squabble, a sellout since August, will be witnessed by a capacity crowd of 75,504 and will be televised regionally.

In other games involving top-ranked teams, Texas A&M (No. 3) hosts Houston, Minnesota (No. 4) visits Northwestern, Oregon State (No. 6) entertains Idaho, Duke (No. 7) is at rice for a night game, Iowa (No. 9) visits Indiana, and Auburn (No. 10) hosts Kentucky.

Three other Big Ten games pitted Iowa against Indiana, Illinois against Ohio State, and Wisconsin against Purdue. The Illini-OSU game will be televised regionally as will a Pacific Coast Conference battle between UCLA and Washington.

Navy, upset by North Carolina last week, hopes to rebound against California. Other major intersectional games include West Virginia at Boston University, Holy Cross at Marquette, Nebraska at Pittsburgh, Alabama at Texas Christian, and William & Mary at Penn State.

Steelers-Cards Rated Even for Tomorrow's Tilt

By EARL WRIGHT

The Browns, hoping to make their best National Football League start since 1953, are 7-point choices to boost their record to 3-0 Sunday by defeating the Philadelphia Eagles at Cleveland.

Although the Browns have won six Eastern Division titles in seven tries, the only time they swept their first three games was in 1953. The Browns, who missed the division crown for the first time last year, would like to match that 1953 campaign because they won 11 straight that season before bowing to Philadelphia.

The Baltimore Colts, only other team with a perfect mark after two weeks of 1957 play, try to make the Green Bay Packers their third straight victim in a game at Milwaukee. The Colts are favored by one point but have won only 4 of their 30 past road games in the NFL.

The Chicago Bears are 7½ points to whip the San Francisco Forty-Niners at Chicago. The Bears, defending Western Division champions, lost to the Packers and Colts in their first two starts and need a victory to remain within range of the leaders.

The New York Giants, defending league and Eastern Division champions, are 6-point choices to make their record 2-1 by defeating the Redskins at Washington.

In Sunday's other games, the Lions are favored over the Los Angeles Rams by one point at Detroit, and the Chicago Cardinals and Steelers are rated even at Pittsburgh. All the games except the one at Pittsburgh will be televised on regional networks by CBS.

Tree Feeding Is Urgent to Offset Summer Drought

Mr. Home Owner, if you take an interest in keeping the surroundings of your home looking beautiful, then you'd better consult Henry's Nursery, located on the Express Highway, two miles from the Belle Vernon bridge toward Bentleyville, Phone HUdson 3-7218.

This nursery sells evergreens, flowering shrubs, roses, hedges, fruit and shade trees, fertilizer, peat moss, and offers landscaping service.

Here's some good advice about tree feeding at this season of the year to offset the severe Summer drought we experienced in this area.

Feeding shade trees never was more urgent than it is this fall.

The surface feeding roots of thousands of trees were dried out or killed by drought this summer. Many young trees are dying as a result. Older ones have been weakened.

At the same time, the bud set for next year on all varieties has been extremely heavy, according to S. T. Gilbert of the Bartlett Tree Expert Co.

Credit the drought for this also. When trees are weakened or approach the dying stage it is nature's signal to go all out to reproduce themselves.

If everything were right, the bloom on trees and shrubs would be spectacular next spring. But great numbers of next year's buds are smaller than they should be.

Every weakened tree should be fed liberally with a well-balanced plant food.

Apply it in crow bar holes 15 to 18 inches deep and three feet apart for big trees. Begin the holes about four feet from the trunk and well beyond the branch spread.

Feeding can be done now or even after the leaves fall. Roots will take up food and water to energize and flatten the buds so they will unfold next spring.

Right now is a good time to buy those evergreens you've been wanting.

That's what professional tree men will tell you.

Nurseries have all the choice evergreen stock on hand today that will be available next Spring.

Evergreens moved to their new locations in late Summer or early Fall usually made a good growth as those planted in Spring.

That's because the ground stays warm and encourages root growth well into the cold weather of November in the Tri-State area.

NHL Players Sue For $3,000,000

NEW YORK (P)—A court test of the reserve clause in professional ice hockey players' contracts, similar to the reserve clause in other pro sports, appeared likely today after the National Hockey League Players Assn. sued the National Hockey League and others for three million dollars.

The association, in its anti-trust action filed Thursday in federal court, charged that the defendants, who included seven individuals, have "since 1926 monopolized and obtained complete domination and control and dictatorship" of professional ice hocey.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Guy Faraci who died 21 years ago tomorrow, October 13, 1936.
We do not forget him
We love him too dearly,
For his memory to fade.
From our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak when,
Our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells
Where it seldom is seen
Sadly missed by daughter and grandchildren.

In loving memory of my dear husband, Earl Richter, who died one year ago today, October 12, 1956.
No one knows how much I miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
I have suffered since I lost you,
Life has never been the same.
In my heart your memory lingers
Sweetly tender, fond and true.
There is not a day, dear loved one
That I do not think of you.
Sadly missed by his wife, Sally Ann Richter.

In loving memory of our dear brother and uncle, Joseph Maione, who died 11 years ago tomorrow, October 13, 1946.
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
Sadly missed by sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vaccaro and Children

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs Maria Cash, who died three years ago today, October 12, 1954.
Loving memories never die
As years roll on, and days pass by,
Deep in our hearts a memory is kept
Of one we loved and will never forget.
Friends may think we forgot you
When at times we seem to smile,
Little do they know our sorrow
That the smiles hide all the while,
We think of you in silence
No eyes can see us weep
But many silent tears are shed
While others are asleep.
A smile, a tear, a thought sincere
How often we wish that you were here.
Sadly missed by Daughters and Sons.

Some First Aid Tips To Help the Child With Asthmatic Attack

A simple procedure which parents easily can follow at home will do much to ease the suffering of a young child with an acute attack of asthma.

Main thing is to be on the lookout for the first signs of an impending "cold" or asthma attack in an asthmatic youngster.

These symptoms include coughing, sneezing, a sore throat, nasal discharge or nasal obstruction, mucus in the throat and a change in the voice.

Other familiar signs are watering of the eyes, a glassy staring or a pale appearance of the eyes. conjunctivitis, dark circles under the eyes or swelling of the eyelids.

Upon noticing these symptoms, put the youngster to bed immediately in a room which is as free as possible from house dust, feathers and wool. Don't allow any pets or birds in the room with the child, either.

Cooking Odors

And make sure there are no odors from cooking, tobacco smoke, burning leaves or fresh paint about the house.

Now it goes without saying that the rest of the treatment should be carried out only upon the advice of your doctor. In fact, he will have to prescribe the medications.

He probably will suggest administering antihistamine nose drops. Any of the vasoconstricting preparations recommended by your physician will be all right.

Follow this with a cough medication containing ephedrine. Or maybe your doctor will choose a similar sympathommetic preparation.

Generally, if your doctor advises it, these medications should be given every four hours during the first 24 hours while the child is awake, and thereafter as indicated.

Your doctor might recommend insertion of an aminophylline suppository each night at bedtime. Usually, this is repeated every 12 hours until the danger of an asthmatic attack is over.

Doctors at the University of Rochester School of Medicine have used this method with excellent results.

Japanese in U. S.

TOKYO (UP)—A five-man study group of small business consultants will leave Tokyo for Washington Monday for a nine-month training course. The group is being sent to the United States to participate in the technical cooperation program under the joint arrangement of the Japan Productivity Center and the International Cooperation Administration, the U S. Embassy said.

Dick Bingham, Pirate Spieler, Is Disc Jockey

Dick Bingham, nationally known sportscaster who shares Pirate broadcasting duties with Bob Prince, has signed as a KDKA disc jockey, it was announced today by L. R. Rawlins, the station's general manager.

Bingham will be host of a music show Sunday afternoons, 12:15 to 6 p.m., beginning Oct. 20, Rawlins said. He will spin tunes before and after Pittsburgh Steeler football games.

While this is a departure from Bingham's normal announcing roles, it is not entirely new venture for the sportscaster. He handled musical shows at WBBM, Chicago, and at WTSP, St. Petersburg, Florida.

Dick has been a Pirate play-by-play announcer since the 1955 season. During the past two seasons he handled play-by-play football for the CBS radio network.

Before coming to Pittsburgh, Bingham worked at WBBM, WTSP, the Liberty Broadcasting Network, the Mutual Broadcasting Company, and WPAR, Parkersburg, W. V. He attended Marietta (O.) College, and was a pilot during World War II with the Naval Air Corps.

He and his wife, Elizabeth, live at 211 Hoodridge Drive, Mt. Lebanon, with their four children.

Dinah Not Fretting Over TV Competition

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — When Dinah Shore returns to the TV wars next week she'll find the battlefield overrun with shows patterned after the musical variety format she pioneered seven years ago.

The blonde songbird admits the competition will be the toughest of her career, but she's not fretting.

"Perry Como and I started the ball rolling with our 15-minute programs," she said during a rehearsal break. "And now that musical shows are springing up all around we ought to be happy about it.

"I think every show will have its own individual flavor and personality. There's room for everyone.

Set The Pace

"Even if we do have a lot of the same guest stars, the gal or guy emceeing the program will set the pace to make them all different in content.

"We have our own special formula for keeping our shows interesting. Instead of introducing guest singers one at a time, we'll mix 'em up in duets, trios and quartettes

"That way I'll be able to sing along with my guests. Most musical shows specialize in solos."

Dinah's first show — she will star in 24 hour - long NBC efforts this year — will include musical combinations involving Danny Thomas, Nanette Fabray, Tab Hunter and Dean Jones.

Building New Home

The pert and pretty singer was interrupted by her husband, actor George Montgomery who is in the throes of building a new home.

"This is the fourth house I've designed for her," he said, giving Dinah an affectionate hug. "We keep selling the old ones because we can't turn down the offers."

"Check," said Dinah. "Our new home is going to be a real dream —two swimming pools, a 60-foot avacado tree growing through the dining room, and a special rehearsal hall for me."

"The fireplace is my favorite," George put in. "It's made of white quartz. And we've got a waterfall flowing through the bedroom."

"We hope to move in around Christmas," Dinah concluded happily. "But I have a feeling we won't be in it long before George starts drawing up plans for number five."

Pat Boone Show On KDKA Tonight

The Pat Boone Show, a series of musical — variety presentations hosted by the popular singer, will make its debut on KDKA-TV tonight from 6 to 6:30 p.m.

On the premiere program Pat will sing one of his biggest hits, "Love Letters in the Sand."

His guest star, Anna Maria Alberghetti, will sing the Italian love song "Torna a Sorrento" ("Come Back to Sorrento").

Duets by the talented pair will include a "Coffee Break" medley — "You're the Cream in My Coffee," "A Cup of Coffee, a Sandwhich and You," "They've Got an Awful Lot of Coffee in Brazil" and the specially written "Coffee Break."

One-fourth of all housewives in the United States don't have any recipes at all. Of those who do, about one-third haven't used one in the past six months.

Lower Level

This Split-level Can Give Lots of Space

A popular theory among house hunters is that older houses offer more space for the money than new homes.

Architect Rudolph A. Matern, of Jamaica, N. Y., has designed this modern split-level home as proof you don't have to be rich or old-fashioned to have plenty of living space.

The house, from its colorful roof down to its 26-foot recreation room, is planned for a growing family.

There are four bedrooms, two-and-a-half baths, a 19-foot living room with adjoining dining room, and a kitchen roomy enough for a breakfast table and chairs.

Other unique space features Matern has built into the house are 10 closets, 10-by-12 foot entrance foyer, two-car garage with a work bench, and basement storage room.

Outside, the architect has specified asphalt shingles in a rich deep color for the unique combination of hip and gable roofs over the two levels. The asphalt shingles set the color scheme for the house and give it dependable protection from harsh weather.

Recognizing the growing enthusiasm of American families for central air conditioning, plus the need for economical heating, Matern also specified thick mineral wool insulation in walls and ceilings throughout the house.

Because it keeps summer heat out, the insulation makes it possible for the builder to install a smaller, less-expensive air-conditioning system, or for the homeowner to save on installation costs at a later date. Mineral wool also helps keep cooling and heating operating costs at the lowest possible levels.

Another thoughtful feature is the strategic location of the bathrooms. The main bath is at the head of a short flight of steps leading from the kitchen and the living room, while the second bath is off the master bedroom. The "half" bath is just inside the rear door, handy to the recreation room and the rear yard.

Further information, blueprints and specifications can be obtained from Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica, L.I. N.Y. Refer to Plan No. 9427.

What to Do About Those Lawn Barespots

When bare spots in the lawn are reseeded, it is best to prepare a seedbed, Associate Westmoreland County Agent Dale P. Jackson advised today.

Rake out the dead grass on these areas, apply some complete fertilizer and lightly cultivate the surface. Jackson said This will mix the fertilizer into the soil and prepare the soil for seeding. Apply the seed lightly, cover by raking with a flexible toothed rake and firm the soil with a light roller or by pressing with the foot.

Use only permanent species of turf grasses, such as bluegrass or red fescue, reported Jackson.

The best variety of bluegrass is Merion Kentucky bluegrass. It is resistant to the leaf spot disease that often attacks ordinary Kentucky bluegrass.

Pennlawn, the best variety of creeping red fescue, is adapted to most Pennsylvania areas and is more resistant to leaf spot than any other red fescue.

How Often Do You Redecorate?

How often do you redecorate your bathroom?

Le R. Shanks of Elmira, N. Y., sopped redecorating his in 1938, when it was paneled with a pre-decorated hardboard.

"This bathroom looks just as nice today as the day it was installed," Shanks wrote the manufacturer recently, except for several areas that were subject to hardest use. With these spots now repaneled, he figures the bathroom ought to be set for at least another 19 years.

Because of the baked melamine plastic surface and other improvements that have been developed since the original panels were made, the next trouble-free stretch may be even longer.

Bathroom Planning Important

The bathroom is one area in the house that needs special attention if the home is to be as accident-free as possible. Extra precautions pay safety dividends.

Mrs. Miriam Long, extension home economist, Westmoreland County, reports a grab bar over the bathtub or in the shower will help prevent serious falls. A rubbery mat or bath towel laid on the bottom of the tub makes it less slippery.

Parents must help children to form safety habits early in life. They must stress the fact that electricity and water are a dangerous combination. One important bathroom safety habit is not using a radio, hair dryer, or other electrical appliance while in the bathtub. Switches to control lights should be placed so they cannot be reached with wet hands.

Many bathrooms need supplementary heat. A heater recessed in the wall is less likely to cause burns than a free-standing one. Electric heaters should be placed so they won't come in contact with water or be touched by wet hands Gas heaters need venting to avoid possible accumulation of poisonous gases.

Medicines, ointments, and other drugs necessary in every family's medicine cabinet should be clearly labeled and kept out of reach of children. Some otherwise harmless substance can be poisonous if taken in large amounts by children. Dangerous drugs must be well protected so there is no chance for young children to use them. A good precuation is a locked compartment for poisions and other harmful items.

Preserve Fall Foliage to Use In Living Room

Preserve some of the brilliant fall foliage as a focal point in your living room.

One way to keep some twigs or branches — not just leaves — is to use the glycerine and water method, according to Mrs. Miriam Long, extension home economist, Westmoreland County.

Mix one part glycerine to two parts water, reports Mrs Long. Hammer the ends of branches until they are pulpy so they quickly absorb the liquid. Put them into the mixture immediately and keep branches in the solution for two weeks. The glycerine and water separate, but that doesn't matter.

You can give leaves this treatment, too, but it's hard to make them stand in the mixture. Don't wet or crowd the leaves, and treat for the same length of time as the branches. Some leaves take the treatment better than others.

The borax method is better for foliage. Put an inch layer of borax in a box. Lay the leaves on this and cover with another inch of borax. In about two weeks take the leaves out and shake off the powder. The leaves will have the fresh coloring and the texture they had when you gathered them. If left too long they become too dry

Watch out for poison ivy. It is deceptively beautiful with its big scarlet leaves in sets of three and small, creamy-white berries. Fall is a good time to attack it. Dig it out or kill it with the recommended spray. Be sure to dig without touching it. Don't burn — even the smoke makes some people ill.

74 Pools Planned

A new development of homes planned for Palm Springs, Calif., will have 74 swimming pools.

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A PLANTER-BOOKCASE

A combination planter-bookcase useful alongside of, or in lieu of a railing near a stairway, can also be used as a room divider. The length of the project will vary with individual circumstances.

First, make the sides using 2 by 12-inch lumber. The pieces are tapered to 7¼ inches at the base along the front edge only.

The shelves and bottom of the planter are made of 2 by 8 and 2 by 10-inch lumber. (If thinner lumber is used for the shelves, center supports will be necessary on long spans). The boards are ripped to the dimensions shown in the diagram and then beveled. Next, the front and back of the planter are made of 2 by 8-inch lumber —bevel the front on the top and bottom edges; rip the back to a width of 5⅞ inches. Make the back of 1 by 12-inch lumber cutting the pieces 30⅛ inches long.

The top trim is made of 2 by 2-inch lumber.

Assemble the project using glue and finishing nails. Finish as desired.

Repair Those Leaky Faucets Soon as Possible

Ever figure how much a leaking faucet costs you?

If most people had, there wouldn't be 24 million worn-out faucets in American homes.

A little bit of water seeping from the faucet or showerhead not only causes irritation but is cash down the drain. If 100 drops of water come from your faucet every minute, the cost to you is about $1.24 a year at current water prices; 200 drops a minute cost you $2.48 a year: a steady stream 1-32 inch costs you $18 04 a year; a stream 1-16 inch costs $77; a stream ⅛ inch costs $251.70.

Then, too, because of fuel costs, the expense is about doubled when hot water is lost.

And, of course, the expense doesn't stop there. If unrepaired, a small leak will become a constantly larger stream. And when the water has a trace of iron or any other mineral, leaking faucets can leave ugly stains on the plumbing fixtures. Should the faucet be allowed to continue to drip, the stain might mar the beauty of the fixture permanently.

As soon as a faucet shows signs of starting out on its own, try changing the washer, suggests the PFMA. Should this fail, ask a plumber to replace the entire faucet. In the long run, it's cheaper than trying to repair an outdated faucet or just letting it drip.

Piano Bench Use

An old piano bench with a hinged top makes an ideal work and play table for a child's room. About 8 inches should be cut off legs to make the table a good height. The compartment in the top holds crayons, coloring books, scissors, and other equipment.

Water for Heating

Water is the ideal medium for modulated heating. This is because the temperature of water can be so easily controlled through a wide range of temperatures, from 75 degrees up to 240 degrees.

Plumbing, Heating Complex Business

Plumbing and heating is steadily becoming more complicated requiring more parts and more different kinds of equipment.

The typical full-line plumbing and heating wholesaler today must stock around 100,000 items as compared with only a few thousand which he stocked years ago.

Basement Floor Drains Are Almost Necessity

Water damage caused by flooding from backed-up sewers is not covered by insurance, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau points out. A typical casualty and surety company policy covering losses from water damage specifically excludes flooding from floor drains and sewers.

That being the case, many homeowners take the precaution of installing floor and cellar drains equipped with the protection of a back flow valve.

The force of backwater from storm and sanitary sewers has been known to break basement floors, weakening sub-foundations and causing building walls to settle.

A flooded drain actually becomes an inlet stead of serving its original purpose as an outlet for waste. When this occurs, water and sewage backs up from the street and into the basement, either through the floor drain or plumbing fixtures, or both.

Not only does basement flooding damage property. It also creates an unwholesome sanitary condition resulting from the deposit of sediment and filth on the floor.

Basement floor drains with backflow valves are simple in construction and operation. The valve closure is a hinged metal flap, normally open to permit continuous circulation of air through the drain. It swings wide to provide a full waterway for drainage to the storm sewer, closing instantly with a tight seal at the slightest hint of reverse flow. Such a floor drain valve is the homeowner's best assurance of a dry basement during seasons of heavy rainfall.
